SOFIA. Bulgaria, Oct. 2-Scouring the defiles of the Bulgarian-Turkish frontier four Turkish infantry companies and ten companies of the Bulgarian troops are looking for the American missionary, Miss Ellen Store, who was captured by Bulgarish brigands and who is now held for ranson. The penalty said to have been imposed by the brigands is that the American mission at Samakov give up $110,000; without the production of this amount Miss Stone will have to die or be forced to wed one of the ruffians who captured

With Miss Stone is Mrse. Tsilka, a Bulgarian missionary. The eleven attendants who were captured with them have been released.

The brigands are a band that came over from Bulgaria for the purpose of plundering Macedonia. The leader is believed to have been implicated in the murder of M. Stambulon.

The police have arrested several sus-picious characters, but it is impossible to say whether or not they were con-cerned in the abduction of the two

It believed that the capture was no a chance one, but was planned by the revolutionists among the Bulgarians. The Bulgarian Government feels the shame of it all, and the Turkish Government is also active in running down the mountain robbers.

the Bulgarians have sent four companies from Kostendil toward Khodope Geeblirge.

Miss Stone has sent a letter to the American mission begging that she be not pursued, for when the robbers have any intimation that the troops are on their track the captives are dragged about from place to place.

The capture of Miss Stone by the brigands occurred on Sept. 3 in Macedonia, Turkey, near the Bulgarian frontier. Mme. Tsilka is the wife of a Protestant minister in Banska.

One report has it that Mme. Tsilka has been sent by the robbers on the way to Banska to arrange for the ransom money.

LAWSUIT OVER KISSES STIRS A WHOLE CITY.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Oct. 2.-There is just one question disturbing the 25,000 residents of this city. It is not regarding the big yacht face or politics or President's callers to-day was Norman ing the big yacht face or politics or L. Orme, formerly of the Rough Riders.

> to do so with discretion.

> The question is being argued in the homes and on the streets. Old and young are interested. Rabid factions are forming on either side.

Growing out of a suit for $10,000 damthe affair is assuming large propor-tions. Mrs. Collins, wife of a Board of Education Commissioner, alleged that Harris made strenuous love to girl pupils who were sent to his office n various missions.

This the superintendent denies hotly, nd, to have his guilt proven or his reputation cleared, has brought the lander suit. He made his first authoritative denial of the charges to-day in a brief statement. He said:

"I have never been guilty of hugging and kissing my pupils. All these stories are absolutely false and when the time Paid Help Wants comes I will prove my innocence."

Against this is Mrs. Collins's reiterated "I have evidence that Mr. Harris to see the little girl, heard her story, and took her before some of the members of the Poughkeepsie Board of Education, where she related all that had happened. "I did this merely as an act of courtesy and to show my keen interest in the welfare of the school. Now, instead of using this evidence, they have turned against me.

"I have no fear of Mr. Harris and his lawsuit, nor of the verdict. "Everybody knows that Mr. Harris jilted Miss Nellie Ward, one of the prettiest girls in town, and a school teacher. The girl told me so herself. I have told nothing about Mr. Harris that other people haven't been telling, and I won't take back a thing."

"I heard so much about the matter that I deemed it my duty to take action, not only as a Commissioner but as a citizen. The girls and their mothers hugged and kissed a little girl whose came to my office and related stories sister teaches in School No. 1. I went about the conduct of the Superintendent with the children. I took the matter before the board, and I did only what I should do again under the circumstances. My wife has been told stories by teacher who will come to the front and tell them again. Those to whom
